Early birds

They're starting early compared to most field corn growers in the Bootheel, but on the Bradley farm near Kewanee, harvest is in full swing. Corn was planted on the Bradley farm before the heaviest rains of late spring caused the delays that have plagued other area corn growers. Earl Bissell (top left photo) runs the combine that pulls in the grain. In the picture on the right is a view down the rows of corn on the Bradleys' 60 acres.

Jim Bradley follows the combine (top left photo) to check the waste output for proper adjustment of the combine's shelling equipment on the Bradley farm near Kewanee. Bissel, left, and Bradley (above photo) discuss ways to adjust the machinery for best possible efficiency. The end result of a trip down the rows (bottom left photo) is this golden cascade of corn kernels, an estimated 120 bushels per acres, being loaded into mobile bins. Driver of the tractor pulled containers is Eugene Gates.

New rules due today on food

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Shoppers looking for bargains headed for the pork and poultry counters today, after receiving mixed advice about the future of the family food bill.

Decreases in the price of pork chops, chicken and eggs were reported in many areas of the country, but some food industry spokesmen said the decline was only temporary.

At the same time, the price of wheat for future delivery rose to record levels on Tuesday, reflecting increased worldwide demand. Some farmers were holding on to their wheat in the belief that the price would go even higher.

The Cost of Living Council said it would announce new regulations for the food industry today. The regulations— allowing additional prices increases to reflect boosts in nonagricultural costs—will take effect Sept. 12.

Daniel Goodrich, assistant meat manager at a Grand Union supermarket in Albany, N.Y., summed up the situation:

"You'll see a lot of poultry and pork specials during the next two weeks," he said. "That will create a demand and the prices will go back up."

Food prices have been rising since they were partially freed from controls on July 18. Only the price of beef remains under a ceiling.

New York City filed a suit in U.S. District Court on Tuesday against Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, claiming he has violated the law by refusing to act on the beef shortage that has developed because of the continuing freeze.

The city claimed that Butz could alleviate the situation by taking action under the recently passed farm bill which allows him to certify that a shortage exists and advise the President on possible solutions.

The city asked that Butz be compelled to certify that there is a shortage and to suggest means of ending it. A hearing was set for Friday.

Scattered price decreases turned up around the country.

Albany (N.Y.) Public Markets was offering chicken Tuesday at 69 cents a pound, down from 94 to 99 cents, while pork loin cuts cost $1.27, a decrease from $1.45.

Egg prices in Pennsylvania supermarkets dropped by as much as 7 cents a dozen in the last week; chicken prices were 35 cents a pound lower; and pork chops declined 11 cents a pound.

The Labor Department said Tuesday that the Consumer Price Index went up two-tenths of one per cent in July, the lowest increase in six months. Food prices, however, went up eight-tenths of one per cent in July, more than had been expected.

Wholesale pork and poultry prices have been declining in recent days because of consumer resistance. Corns and soybeans sold for future delivery also dropped in price on Tuesday and analysts said the decrease was due to the belief that prices have gone as high as they're going to go.

Wheat prices, however, soared, raising the prospect of additional increases in the price of bread and pasta. Wheat sold now for delivery in September closed at over $5 a bushel at two Midwest markets, up almost $2 a bushel in the past month.

Patrol headquarters bids to be opened Sept. 27

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Bids will be opened Sept. 27 on construction of a new Troop E. Highway Patrol Headquarters at Poplar Bluff, John Cooper, state dirctor of design and construction, said Tuesday.

The new headquarters has been a subject of controversy for the past year. In early 1972, the legislature appropriated $693,000 for the new headquarters to replace the current building at Poplar Bluff.

Former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes struck the words "Poplar Bluff" from the appropriation and the highway patrol superintendent, E. I. "Mike" Hockaday, announced it would be built near Sikeston.

Poplar Bluff residents brought suit, and a circuit judge ruled the patrol superintendent could select the site but the Highway Commission would have to approve spending the money.

The highway commission voted again for the Sikeston site, but new members were appointed to the commission this year and the commission voted again, agreeing with the new superintendent, Samuel S. Smith, to keep the headquarters at Poplar Bluff.

Bids for the Sikeston site were opened Dec. 28, but the court suit delayed awarding of bids. At the time, the Sides Construction Co. of Cape Girardeau had the apparent low base bid.

Chaffee boy is critically hurt

A Chaffee boy was critically injured and three other persons were slightly injured in two area traffic accidents Wednesday, the highway patrol reported today.

John Kenneth Dohogne, 10, of Chaffee is in critical condition at Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau following an accident at 12:10 p.m. at the junction of Routes P and J near Randles in Cape Girardeau County.

The accident occurred when the boy, driving a motorcycle west on Route J, failed to yield the right of way and was struck by a tractor- trailer truck driven north on Route P by Clifford French, 22, of Potosi.

The boy received internal injuries and had one leg amputated. He was also treated for shock.

Three persons were injured at 2:30 p.m. on Route NN six miles south of Gobler.

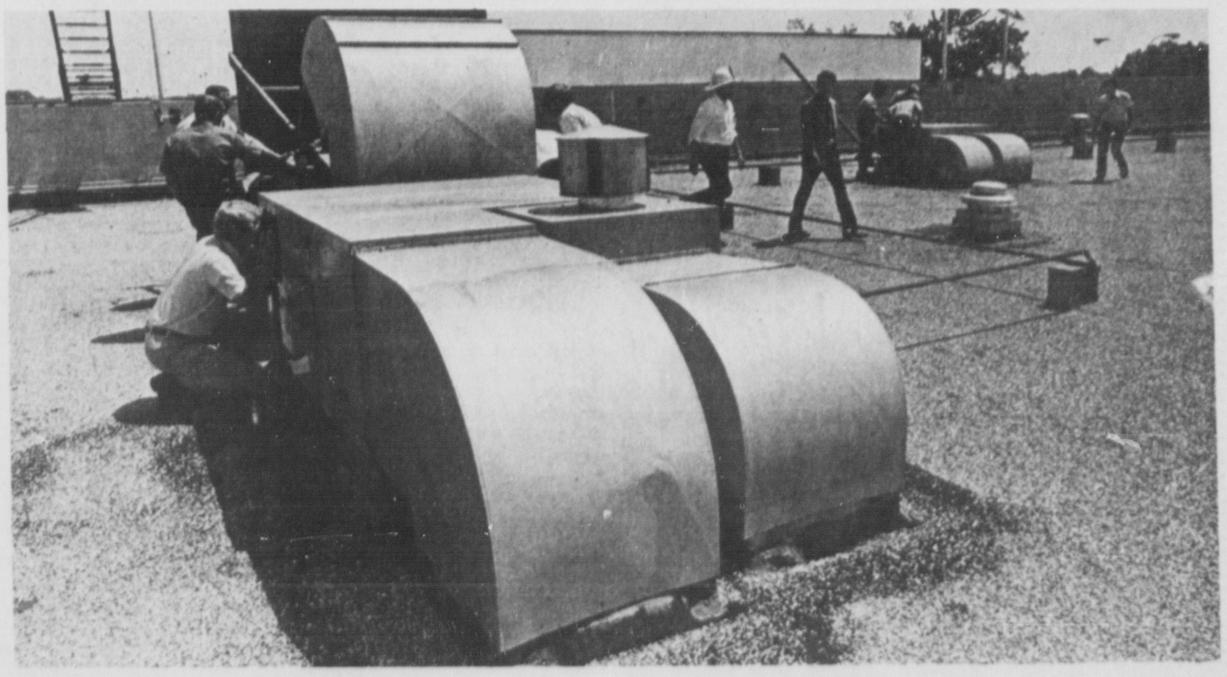
A car driven by Willie Mae Pulliam, 40, of Kennett ran over a ridge in the highway, frightening a passenger. The passenger grabbed Mrs. Pulliam's arm, causing her to lose control, run off the right side of the road, come back across the highway, run off the left side of the road and traveled several hundred feet into a cotton field.

Mrs. Pulliam and a passenger, Mildred Pulliam, 23, of Kennett, received minor injuries. Another passenger, Howard Pulliam, 70, of Kennett, suffered a possible broken shoulder. All three were taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

Burglars take money and gun

BLODGETT-- Burglars took $40 in change and a $50 antique rifle sometime during the night from Jolly's Feed Barn Restaurant, according to Bud Jones, Scott County deputy sheriff.

The burglars entered through a bathroom window sometime between 8 p.m. Tuesday and 6:30 a.m. today. They took an antique .22 caliber single shot rifle, $20 in change from a cigarette machine, $20 in change from a cigar box, two cartons of cigarettes and a clip of antique rifle shells.



Firemen check air-conditioner

Sikeston Fire Department personnel were called to Britt's Department Store in Kingsway Plaza Mall Tuesday at 12:45 p.m. when smoke was smelled in the store. After checking the store, it was determined that the smoke originated from an electrical wire in one of the large roof air conditioners. From left clockwise are Volunteer Fire Capt. Glenn Greene, Vernon Morris, Cecil Carter (behind Morris), David Wyatt, Fire Chief Larry Linnemeyer and Britt's assistant manager David Boardman. Other firemen check one of the air-conditioning units in the background.

YOU ARE WHAT YOU EAT -- OR HARVEST

A seven- year - old boy walks through a tobacco field and drops dead. The field had been sprayed with parathion, a pesticide. Farm workers gathering other types of crops report to clinics and complain of dizziness, excessive sweating, cramps, and appetite loss. The diagnosis: flu. But that death, and those illnesses, may well have been caused by pesticide poisoning.

The situation is serious enough to engage the attention of the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). Starting Wednesday, Aug. 29, in Washington, D.C., the EPA will begin a series of public hearings on the question of farm- worker protection from pesticide hazards. Among other things, the hearings will attempt to establish standards for protective clothing, registration of pesticide suppliers, and re-entry into fields that have been sprayed with insect- destroying chemicals. The EPA expects to announce its rules on these matters prior to the 1974 crop season.

The agency already has turned down a request by the U. S. Air Force to register a portion of its excess Herbicide Orange for domestic agricultural use. This weed and brush killer was used as a defoliant in Vietnam until April 1970, since which time the Air Force has been sitting on 2.3 million surplus gallons of the stuff. Apparently it is too strong to be applied safely to crops destined for human consumption.

So what are farmers to do now that millions of idle acres are to be opened to cultivation? Daniel Zwerdling, a free-lance writer, provided one answer in a recent article in The Washington Post (Aug. 5, 1973): "In experiments across the country, farmers are using crop rotation, new planting and harvesting techniques, natural predators, insect hormones and natural bacterial diseases to stop serious pests. Other farmers are saving money (and the environment) by using integrated pest management, a technique which combines natural predators and crop rotation with small- scale, selected pesticides -- used only when absolutely necessary." All that is well and good -- but the current crop year has reminded farmer and consumer alike that freakish weather can have as devastating an effect on farm production as can insect pests.

STARFISH GET A REPRIEVE

A truce has been declared in the war against the crown- of thorns.

Coral reef buffs will recall that this oversized starfish experienced a population explosion in the late 1960s and began eating away at Pacific coral reefs, especially in Australia and Guam. Bounties were put on the creature throughout the Pacific and untold thousands were destroyed.

Now, reports Smithsonian magazine, evidence is accumulating that the starfish may not be such a villain after all. According to one scientist, the starfish population may not really have exploded; it may simply be that in the 1960s more people began snooping around reefs and thus more people began noticing the crown- of- thorns because it was designated as a threat.

It's possible, he says, that the starfish is simply one of several natural ways that coral- reef growth has always been limited.

In any case, except in a few places where the starfish is probably harming a reef, the recommendation is to halt the eradication program, at least until we know more about what we think we are doing.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, jr. (Va.) says the Federal government deficit in the five- year period ending June 20, 1974, will exceed $130 billion; that interest on the national debt has doubled in the past eight years, and that taxpayers now face an annual debt interest cost bill of $26 billion.

"Putting it another way," says Sen. Byrd, "of every corporate and personal income tax dollar paid into the Treasury, 17 cents goes to pay the interest on the national debt."

This information should be a rude shock to those who gloat over the revenue- sharing funds now being awarded to local and state government. Isn't it time that our high taxes be used to reduce our enormous national debt and ease the burden of future generations?

Dieting is a self- defeating strategy to use in the "battle of the bulge," because it ignores the real cause of weight gain -- inactivity.

Americans weigh too much not because they overeat, but because our modern, labor-saving devices have made us less and less active, according to the July- August issue of Fitness for Living Magazine. Our sedentary habits burn off fewer calories, and in order to maintain a certain weight the body must keep a very fine balance between the number of calories consumed and calories burned.

Approximately 3,500 calories equal one pound of fat. This means that the person who consumes an extra 100 calories a day gains one pound in 35 days, starting him or her on the road to obesity. Fitness For Living points out that since glucose levels in the blood determine hunger or satiety, bulk food (energyless, calorieless "diet" food) doesn't satisfy hunger. You may feel full immediately after eating, but if the food lacks sufficient nutrients your blood sugar level drops quickly. An hour or two after a meal you're hunting for a snack.

In an experiment at Harvard, reports the magazine, a group of rats were given a certain amount of food and kept active to maintain their weights. When the researchers changed 10 per cent of the rats' diet to "no-cal" food, the rats ate approximately 10 per cent more food. When the amount of this bulk food was increased to 20 per cent, the rats ate 20 per cent more food. This shows that people who eat low- calorie foods to reduce only defeat themselves -- they are constantly hungry due to low glucose levels.

Exercise, says Fitness For Living, lets you avoid the perpetual cycle of always either gaining or losing weight. Unfortunately, Americans are today absorbing a steady stream of propaganda which advocates self- enforced starvation as the exclusive way to stay in shape. One frequent argument is that exercise increases appetite and makes for weight gain, not loss. Exercise will increase a normally active person's appetite -- because vigorous and constant exercise burns up more calories, hunger must increase or the body would waste away. But decreasing activity below a certain limit doesn't lower the appetite.

Another myth states that exercise requires relatively little use of calories. The media bombard us with the notion that a pound of fat is lost only by walking 36 hours, playing volleyball for 11 hours, etc. This ignores the fact, says the magazine, that the effect of regular exercise is cumulative -- the calories burned during a certain amount of exercise are lost whether you perform the activity in a day or a year. Six hours of handball burns up one pound, but you don't have to play all six hours at one time. A half- hour of handball spread over 12 days does the trick. In a year you've played off 30 to 36 pounds!

Although exercising isn't as fast as dieting, it's more effective because the weight is lost permanently, observes Fitness. Rather than martyr yourself trying to starve off weight by dieting, exercise it off to stay slim and healthy.

U. S. IS URGED TO ADOPT FAVORABLE TRADE POLICIES

The United States should focus on tax and trade policies that will stimulate international trade and enhance the competitive position of American industry, J. Stanford Smith, senior vice president of General Electric Company and 1973 chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers Committee on International Economic Affairs, said recently.

He pointed out that, in the last decade, U. S. firms with the most intensive foreign investment have increased their U. S. payrolls three times faster than firms with the least intensive foreign investment.

Commenting specifically on the Burke - Harke bill, which would restrain foreign operation of American concerns, Mr. Smith described the proposal as "short- sighted legislation which would drastically limit imports and certainly trigger an international trade war that would reduce American exports."

"It proposes tax increases on the offshort bases of our multinational companies — tax changes that would literally force many of these overseas bases out of existence," he said.

"The bill proposes sharp limitations on the exchange of licenses with other countries — not recognizing that the U. S. cannot be a 'technological island' and that cutting of such interchanges would eventually result in the loss of our technological leadership."

Mr. Smith said there would be many unhappy consequences if the Burke - Hartke bill passes, or if portions of it, such as the tax provisions, are tacked onto other bills. He listed three key aspects:

"First, the world is rapidly developing into one market place — this is important to a higher level of living for all nations; it is important to the building of ties between nations, for the channels of commerce become the routes to peace. Any legislation that would turn the clock backward to the tragic days of Smooth-Hawley endangers the progress, prosperity, and security of the world.

"Second, multinational operations are a major source of employment and income for the United States. This legislation would cost hundreds of thousands of American jobs and adversely affect millions of U.S. stockholders.

"Third, and last," Mr. Smith said, "Burke- Hartke could so ruin our competitive position in world markets as to make the United States a second- rate economic power. The U.S. is not the undisputed world economic power it once was. Expansion of the European Common Market, the incredible emergence of Japan, tarrif and non-tariff barriers, differences in transportation and labor costs, and special local market demands — these are the realities of international competition which have led to the emergence of multinational companies and the use of foreign affiliates as a primary vehicle for international trade."

"Who is this woman?" asked the officer, with pencil poised.

"My wife," said the motorist grimly.

"Drive on, my friend!" exclaimed the officer, pityingly, as he proceeded to tear up the ticket. "Drive on — and may the Lord have mercy on you!"

SAFETY OF PRIVATE FLYING UP, UP, UP

A $30,000 airplane, anyone? Or how about $1,500 worth of tuition toward a private pilot rating?

These are among the inducements being offered by the General Aviation Manufacturers Assn. (GAMA) to encourage pilots and those who would like to be pilots to participate in the Federal Aviation Administration's Accident Prevention Program.

Between June 1, 1972, and Jan. 31, 1973, more than 115,000 pilots and nonpilots qualified for these and 102 other prizes in GAMA's Safe Pilot Sweepstakes by attending an FAA safety seminar and aircraft clinic. Thousands more are expected to qualify before the sweepstakes ends and the winners' names are drawn.

The FAA program began in 1971 after investigations of general aviation accidents and established that more than 80 per cent of them were attributable to pilot error.

The program, which is entirely voluntary, consists of the safety education seminars and aircraft clinics as well as courtesy check rides to enable pilots to improve weaknesses and discussions with industry representatives on aircraft and equipment. Pilots are also encouraged to file reports regarding unsafe airway or airport conditions. An FAA Accident Prevention Specialist handles the program at each of 84 general aviation district offices around the country.

This emphasis on general aviation safety is hardly new, however. Safety has always been stressed — by the manufacturers of aircraft, engines, radios and other components; through testing and certification; through the training and licensing of pilots, mechanics, air traffic controllers and other specialists, and by various pilot organizations.

The result has been a steady improvement in the accident picture over the years. In 1960, for example, there were 4,793 accidents recorded for 13.1 million hours and 1.7 billion miles flown by general (non - airline) aviation.

By 1970, the hours and miles flown had increased to 25.5 million and 3.9 billion respectively but the number of accidents increased only slightly, to 4,927. The accident rate per 100,000 flying hours was cut almost in half.

Private pilots and others who would like to participate in the program — and enter the GAMA Sweepstakes — can find out the times and locations of seminars and clinics by contacting their local FAA office.

SENATE ATTACKS PRIVATE PROPERTY

Honoring the right to own property enabled us to build our country and to make it the greatest nation in the world. As long as an individual can own his own property without fear of having it unjustly taken from him, he has a measure of independence which contributes to his own security and to his ability to create and to build. The personal enterprisers who have made our standard of living what it is could not have done so without the right to private property.

But apparently many members of the United States Senate have lost sight of this fundamental fact about our country. The Senate recently passed by a vote of 64 to 21 a federal land- use bill which severely damages this precious right.

The bill appropriates $1.06 billion to be distributed to the states for the development of state- wide zoning programs, under the direction of bureaucrats in Washington.

One provision of the bill requires that the states must regulate land sales or development projects to such an extent, according to Senator Paul Fannin of Arizona, "as to require the state to 'determine whether there is a need for the proposed project' and whether it should proceed."

Another provision gives the Interior Department power to restrict the use of all "areas of critical environmental concern which are of more than statewide significance, "defining "critical areas" so broadly that almost any real estate could come under the jurisdiction of the federal government. The danger of such legislation should be obvious to all freedom- minded patriots. This bill must be defeated. Free citizens should take action to see that this bill is. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

Artful Dodgers' Traits Revealed by Borrowed Art

WASHINGTON — Last summer, when the Watergate culprits plotted their cover-up, their first thoughts were to destroy all incriminating documents. They shredded some documents and burned some more. One White House disposal crew even unblushingly planned to "deep six" a five in the malodorous waters of the Potomac.

Yet, one batch of documents escaped: the records of the National Gallery of Art which list the big shots who borrow copies of famous paintings to decorate their offices. Clues to the hidden personalities of the artful dodgers of Watergate are unexpectedly revealed by their choices.

Boyish presidential counsel John Dean, whose enigmatic wife Maureen sat behind him all those long days in the Senate hearings, has the same taste for lovely women on his office walls.

Mysterious Maureen's expression is reflected in "La Mousme," a dark- complexioned young woman captured by Van Gogh, which hung in Dean's old office at the Justice Department.

PENSIVE YOUNG GIRL

Dean could also muse over the pensive "Young Girl Reading" by Fragonard -- ironically, a painter who fell from grace during the French Revolution because he had shown fawning loyalty to the corrupt French kings.

Egil "Bud" Krogh, the White House's tough law and order adviser, as chief of the "plumbers," ran the antilaw and order break-in of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office. But he exhibited a surprisingly delicate taste in art.

When he was transferred to the Transportation Department, his choice was the mystic "Wildflowers" of Redon, one of the most peculiar stylists of the past century. A Krogh aide told our reporter Bob Owens that the plumbers' chief eyed it several times each day.

In the White House quarters of Tom Charles Huston, the controversial young lawyer who drafted dark, ugly plans for clandestine burglaries and wiretaps on his fellow Americans, there were by contrast two brilliant, open scenes of outdoor beauty, one of the Lackawanna Valley, the other of Venice.

KLEINDIENST'S 'HIGH ROAD'

Another outdoor scene, the "View of a High Road" -- perhaps the same "high road" he tried to take before the Senate Watergate Committee -- graced the Justice Department office of former Attorney General Richard Kleindienst.

A White House talent seeker and hatchet man, Fred Malek, borrowed a print called "End of the Hunt." Whether "End of the Hunt" marks the end of Malek's talent hunt, or the end of Watergate Howard Hunt's tenure as a White House aide may be cause to ponder.

Selections from the National Gallery portfolio also give curious insights into bigwigs beside the Watergate bunch.

Discharged Interior Secretary Wally Hickel's office prophetically borrowed Rembrandt's "The Philosopher," while the House Immigration Subcommittee decorated its office with a dreamy picture of faraway Italy. Usually upbeat Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, surprisingly picked Picasso's somber "The Tragedy."

By coincidence, the Senate's handsome Peter Dominick, R-Colo., and House Administration Chairman Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, who has an irrepressible eye for the ladies, both exhibit the same picture -- "The Lovers," by Picasso.

CATARACT COVER-UP — Confidential Air Force medical records indicate a battle royal is raging behind the scenes over whether military radar sets give servicemen cataracts.

For years, we have warned against microwave exposure. Finally, the Veterans Administration upheld our view on the radars in a landmark case. But the Pentagon, faced with tens of millions of dollars in equipment, training and personnel changes, not to mention disability payments and legal suits, has publicly maintained there is "no hazard" from ordinary exposure.

Now, the Air Force's own experts seem to be going against this view in a major test case, involving T. Sgt. Dennis Johnson, a veteran radar man.

Three Air Force doctors have found cataracts and one has said flatly his "cataracts can be associated with radiation." Another expert comments, "With the increasing numbers of (Johnson's) old unit developing cataracts, it certainly sounds suggestive." Still a third recommends no more radar duty for Johnson.

Meanwhile, the 37-year - old Johnson is caught in the middle. If the Air Force admits ts radars gave him cataracts, it could mean millions in costs to the Navy and Army, as well. But if the Air Force conceals the radar damage, it endangers the eyes of thousands of military radar men.

SAFE PASSAGE — Back when he was engineering head for the Army in the Panama Canal Zone, Col. Robert Clark got $3,000 worth of unauthorized improvements on his quarters at taxpayers' expense, including glass sliding doors in his living room.

Despite his taste for federally- funded extravagance, he was promoted to lieutenant governor of the Canal Zone. But his wasteful ways were too much for even the U. S. - run Canal authorities, and according to a letter from the Army, he was admonished. Clark retired, but we recently found him right back in the Zone holding down a plush job in the Canal Administration.

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks that a headwaiter gets tired of hearing:

"Here at the restaurant he's known as Maurice, but at home everybody in the neighborhood still calls him Joe."

"The only French Maurice knows is what he picked up from a foreign phrase book a customer left here 20 years ago."

"I know I've sent the steak back three times, pardner, and I'll keep on sending it back until you bring me a real piece of steer. I'm from Texas, and I know what good steak is."

"We're operating in the red now, Maurice, and I can't raise your salary. But I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll list you on the menu as our maitre d'hotel. Maybe with that title you can pick up more palm money from our clientele."

"What if he isn't wearing a jacket, Maurice! Let him in anyway. He owns a 20-acre ranch in the middle of Albuquerque."

"Push the corned beef hash all week, Maurice. If there's any left Friday night, the staff is going to be paid in it."

"Our usual table, please, Maurice. My wife and I just flew in from the Riviera, and we're totally exhausted. If our usual table is taken, I'm afraid we'll have to dine elsewhere."

"The chef is off on a bender, Maurice, and somebody will have to fill in for him. You used to be a short order cook once, didn't you! Well, take off that boiled shirt and black tie and get out to the kitchen, and we'll see how much you're still at home on the range."

Other fines levied on misdemeanor charges:

Jessie Edward Johnston of New Madrid, defective brakes, $20; James Eddie Bryant of Sikeston, failure to stop at stop sign, $25; Frank Coffee, permitting unlicensed operator to drive, $20; Grant Benson Richards, operating improperly registered vehicle, $20; Loren Barham, failure to title a motor vehicle, $20; and Arthur Lee Whitaker, improper registration, $20.

In civil actions, Montgomery Ward was granted $268.09 judgment against Faye Stallion; French Land Co. dismissed with prejudice and at its cost a suit against Cleo and Verna Lee Pattillo; John Cross doing business as Cross Oil Co., received $268.71 judgment against Harold Gremore, doing business as Gremore Lime Co.; and, following stipulation and agreement, J. D. Fodge dismissed with prejudice suit against the City of Sikeston and others.

Charges amended; Graham placed on 2 years probation

Clay Faye Graham received a suspended one-year jail sentence and was placed on probation for a period of two years by Special Judge Tom Brown of Charleston after pleading guilty to a reduced charge of assault Tuesday in Magistrate Court.

According to Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Steve Taylor, charges that Graham beat and robbed Sterling Duncan of $17 were amended to a misdemeanor charge of assault after Duncan failed to appear in court to testify at the preliminary hearing.

Conditions of Graham's probation are that he obey the law and pay court costs.

A hearing on a motion to supress evidence filed for Dennis Wilson of Sikeston was set for Aug. 31. Wilson was charged on June 15 with receiving stolen property.

District office to remain in Dexter

DEXTER— There are absolutely no plans-- now or in the future-- to move or alter the district welfare office now located in Dexter, State Rep. C. F. Cline of Sikeston said Tuesday.

Cline said that he had "checked out the rumors" and had been assured by the top officials of the State Department of Welfare that the district office will remain in Dexter.

There had been some "coffee cup rumors" in recent weeks concerning the office, Cline said.

"But I have been assured by the highest authority that these rumors are unfounded," Cline stated.

"I was told by the director of this division that there is absolutely no plan to move the office or close it," Cline said.

The office, located on Sassafras Street, includes a number of personnel, and four supervisors. The office has been located in Dexter for many years and was at one time located in an office in the downtown business area, but moved to the present location several years ago.

Cline said he became aware of the rumors several days ago and began an immediate investigation.

Committee asks Oct. 1 pay hike

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Fiscal Affairs Committee of the Missouri Legislature was asked Tuesday to allow a pay hike for certain nonmetropolitan state employes to go into effect Oct. 1, rather than wait until next year.

If the committee acts favorably on the request, starting pay for guard officers in the Department of Corrections could be boosted two steps— from $427 a month to $470.

Mark Edelman, state budget director, told the committee that when the legislature passed a bill last session to eliminate lower pay scales for non-metropolitan state employes, it caused some inequities.

Miss Lovins bride of McCord

DEXTER — Miss Sharon Rose Lovins became the bride of Daniel Ray McCord in a double- ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Thurman Bland at Second General Baptist Church on July 27.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Lovins of Dexter Route Three, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Verly McCord Sr. of Risco.

The church was decorated by baskets of white majestic daisies and greenery with large yellow satin bows. The couple stood at the altar before arched candelabra which held lighted yellow tapers.

Pre- nuptial selections were presented at the organ by Mrs. June Coffey. Included were the "Theme from Love Story" and "Theme from Romeo and Juliet". Soloist Howard Jones sang, "More", "We've Only Just Begun", and "Wedding Prayer".

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white taffeta overlaid with sheer dotted Swiss, featuring a fitted bodice accented by a ruffle at the scooped neckline, sheer, long sleeves, gathered to wide bands at the wrist, and a slightly gathered skirt which fell from the fitted midriff. A wide ruffle trimmed the edge of the skirt.

Her petal headpiece was formed of lace and held secure her veil of illusion which cascaded into a cathedral train, trimmed by wide lace edging. She carried a nosegay of yellow and white daisies. Her only jewelry was a small pendant necklace received as a gift from the groom.

Miss Charlotte Adams of Dexter was maid of honor and Miss Gloria Dowdy of Dexter and Miss Vicky Murphy of Poplar Bluff were bridesmaids. The attendants wore identical floor- length gowns of yellow taffeta overlaid with yellow and white and featuring a sweetheart neckline, short sleeves and an empire waistline accented by yellow ribbon above an A-line skirt. They carried nosegays of yellow daisies and wore wide-brimmed hats of yellow teimmed with white ribbon.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Lovins chose a floor- length gown of pink. Mrs. McCord wore a floor-length gown of yellow. Each mother wore a corsage of white daisies.

The groom chose his brother, Rick McCord of Risco, as best man. Groomsmen were Randy Terry and Mike Brotherton of Risco, who also served as ushers. Candle lighters were Andy McCord of Risco, brother of the groom, and Randy Lovins of Dexter, brother of the bride. Glenda Lovins of Dexter, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She was escorted by Steven Corgan of Dexter, cousin of the bride, who was ringbearer.

A reception was held after the ceremony in the church dining room. The refreshment table held a bouquet of yellow and white daisies flanked by yellow tapers, along with a three-tiered cake accented by Roman columns and daisies.

Serving at the reception were Mrs. Doris Williams, Mrs. Emma Lou Adams and Miss Joyce Buck. Presiding at the guestbook was Mary Jane Whitmore.

For a wedding trip to Six Flags over Mid- America near St. Louis and Silver Dollar City near Branson the bride changed to a knit dress of yellow and white.

The bride is a 1973 graduate of Dexter High School.

The groom is a graduate of Risco High School and is presently enrolled at Three Rivers Community College in Poplar Bluff.

The couple is living at Risco.

Guests at the wedding from out- of- town were:

Mrs. Mary Simpson of Lilbourn; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Newingham, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Bathon, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Terry and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Buck of Risco; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Corgan and family, Mrs. Mary Ferguson and sons and Mrs. Beulah Corgan of Las Cruces, N.M.; Mr. and Mrs. Verlon Green and Jerry and Miss Carolyn Porter of Steele; Miss Joanne Neucomer of Bloomfield; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hathaway and Susan and David Vineyard of Bernie; Roger Jordan of Gray Ridge; Mr. and Mrs. Harley Lovins of St. Charles; Mr. and Mrs. Mike McCord of Bridgeton; and Kim Rawson of Flat River.

Dorothy Deon Winans and Doyle Brown Jr. were united in marriage Aug. 12 in an early Sunday morning ceremony in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Clayton, 713 Allen Blvd., by the Rev. Grady Etheridge.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Brown Sr. of Faraway Farms at Essex.

Soloist was Marie Etheridge.

The bride wore a street-length dress of brown and white and carried two long-stemmed pink roses.

Mrs. Lana Taylor was maid of honor and wore a navy blue street- length dress and carried a long- stemmed pink rose.

Doyle Brown Sr. served his son as best man.

Clay Winans, son of the bride, and David Clayton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Clayton, lit the candles in a simple candlelight service.

Following the wedding, breakfast was served at Holiday Inn for the families of the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown are both employed by the Sikeston school system and will make their home at 806 Davis Blvd.

The couple left following the ceremony on an undisclosed honeymoon trip.

First grade exciting, awesome experience

By SHAREN HUNT
University of Missouri
Extension Agent

BENTON— Going to school is an exciting, but awesome experience both for the first time student and his parents. Parents often have mixed feelings about their "baby" leaving home, but school isn't a transition from home to school. It's an introduction to the double role that will occupy one-half to two- thirds of his awake hours for the next 12 or 13 years.

As children go off with their crayons, pencils, paper, etc, parents' pride and uncertainties often blend to form a lump in one's throat.

Parental attitude of jealousy or resentment of the teachers or schools influence or fear that they won't be needed, is a block to adjustment for the child.

To save a lot of trouble and avoid a crisis of "letting go", discuss and treat school as a happy experience and that learning is an important part of his life.

By being aware of some of your child's tasks, you can help him enjoy his new role. The first school years come at a time when your child isn't too sure of himself or his skills.

Along with learning school rules and expectations, first year students have to learn to be a group member-- in class and playground. He needs to find out where he stands with his teacher and classmates. To some, it's a shock to discover they must earn the liking of others, after being accepted and loved just by being a family member.

Parents can help by realizing these new experiences may result in occassional tantrums, moods or outbursts of restless energy. It may be hard to describe what he did at school and constant questions probably won't get more than a "nothing" answer. Too much pressure to make good in school or come out on top in everything discourages him, for not every child wants to get all A's.

The home and school world can reinforce each other for the child with a healthy sense of family security is eager to try out what he can do.

Ann Landers

Postmaster is caught playing 'Post Office'

Dear Ann Landers: My husband (now retired) was postmaster here for many years. He is a community leader, well- respected, not handsome but distinguished - looking, and he has a pleasing personality.

My husband always went to the postmasters' conventions alone, both state and national. Even after his retirement he went because he "wanted to know what was going on." He discouraged my accompanying him-- said I'd find them a bore.

Two years ago I decided I might like to attend a convention with him but he talked me out of it. Last year it was the same story.

Over the weekend I stumbled across some letters that explained many things. They were from a woman postmaster in another state. While they weren't exactly love letters, it was obvious these two had been intimate over a period of years. I nearly went into a state of shock.

After hours of soul searching, I decided to confront him with the letters. He confessed everything. The woman is married, has children, and is very discreet. It's no love affair, they are just "good friends." And it's been going on for 15 years.

I can't get his adultery out of my mind. I've asked him, as his penance, to write to her and tell her he has confessed and that she should write to me and apoligize. He refuses to do it.

First Question: Should I write to her? It would make me feel better.

Second Question: He has asked me to attend the next convention. I plan to go. If she is there, what should I say when we meet? I feel like a fool asking Ann Landers for help, but I feel very inadequate and ---Betrayed.

Dear B.: Answer to First Question: No. Too many letters have been written already.

Answer to Second Question: Say, "How do you do," and give no hint that you know she and your husband have been playing "Post Office." (He'll tell her.) You will then be the cool cucumber and she'll be the one who is sweating.

More advice: Forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: Since most people read your column, please print this and hopefully it will make some people realize that their vacation should be at their own expense and not at the expense of friends. When I plan a trip, food and lodging are budgeted for. Sometimes I telephone friends when passing through town, but I never impose by asking them to put me up. I check into a hotel before I make the call.

Summer is not over yet and I've already had four sets of vacationers who "passed through" and asked me to put them up. I am single and working. The expense of wining and dining unexpected visitors has put a real dent in my finances --- not to mention the late nights and having to get up early the next morning to go to work.

My phone bill is three times higher than normal because of calls made by my guests to their other friends while I'm at work.

Last week a distant cousin passed through with her child. I had to buy whole milk, which I don't drink (I use skim milk for cooking), hot cereal (which I don't eat) and cough syrup for her two-year-old demon who terrorized us until well after midnight because the brat refused to go to bed until he felt like it.

I enjoy seeing old friends but if they can't afford a vacation, they should stay at home. I do!!!! ---Broke, Disgusted & Tired

Dear B.D. & T.: Good advice. I couldn't have done better myself.

Don't get burned by a "line" that's too hot to handle. Play it cool with Ann Landers's guide to "Necking and Petting -- What Are the Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope.

Local woman appointed to Alumni Council

COLUMBIA — Mrs. Nannette Richter Morris of Sikeston Route Three and Mary Lynn Mayfield Dement, 704 Allen Blvd., were among the 100 Stephens College alumnae appointed to the Missouri Alumnae Admissions Council recently organized by the undergraduate women's college in Columbia.

The first workshop, to give alumnae insight into reasons for the council and training in admission methods, was held Tuesday and today.

The Missouri alumnae will act as contacts in their hometowns to discuss academic opportunities and available financial aid with young women interested in attending Stephens.

Trish Starnes, who may be contacted at Stephens in Columbia, is associate director of admissions for this area.

Bond says 'energy crisis is very real'

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The energy crisis is very real and must be coped with immediately, Gov. Christopher S. Bond told a meeting of the new Missouri Energy Council Tuesday.

The council has been charged with making recommendations for fuel conservation, finding new sources and suggesting legislation to conserve fuel.

"The energy shortage is across the board," Bond said. "It's not simply gasoline for automobiles, but also includes propane, natural gas, heating oil and electricity.

"Fuel commodities that we are able to conserve this summer-- by less and slower driving on Labor Day or by forming car pools—may be essential to having adequate food supplies and heat this winter.

"The more gasoline our refineries must produce for summer driving, the less heating fuel they will be able to produce for the winter."

Bond said he has received 40 suggestions from state department directors and other state employes for saving fuel.

He said air conditioning has been used less, different insulation is being used in office buildings, fewer new state cars have air conditioning and other accessories, state cars are being used less, and the state Park Board is establishing more hiking and biking trails to take the place of types of recreation that use fuel.

Post shuts down

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Post-Dispatch suspended publication indefinitely today following a strike by members of Teamsters Union Local 610.

Talks between the two sides broke off Tuesday night and a picket line was set up about midnight around the building housing the city's only afternoon daily newspaper. A newspaper spokesman said some nonmanagement employes who crossed the picket line early this morning were placed on furlough status indefinitely.

No further talks were scheduled between the union and Post-Dispatch management.

The strike, which also affects publication of the morning St. Louis Globe-Democrat, was the second this year to halt publication of the Post-Dispatch. The afternoon daily was shut down for two days in the spring by an electricians strike against KSD-TV, which is also owned by the Pulitzer Publishing Co.

The Teamsters three-year contract expired at midnight. The union is seeking to place dock workers in trucks at the Post-Dispatch's new plant in St. Louis County.

The union also asked for a 58 per cent increase in wages and fringe benefits over a threeyear period, but a union spokesman said the dock hand issue caused the work stoppage. Present wage scales were not disclosed.

A spokesman for the newspaper said earlier in the day that it had never used dock hands in trucks and that automated delivery equipment at the new plant made such manning "even less useful than in the past."

The Post has offered guideline wage and fringe benefit increases of about 6.2 per cent annually, the spokesman said.

G. Duncan Bauman, publisher of the Globe, said the newspaper will make every effort to publish Thursday morning papers in spite of the strike. Wednesday morning newspapers were published.

Where'd They Go?

Pennsylvania Avenue, traditional parade route in Washington, D.C., has disappearing traffic lights. Before parades, the poles in the center of the street are removed and the holes they leave covered with metal plates.

TRCC builds baseball program

POPLAR BLUFF--- Three Rivers Community college added a pair of strong arm pitchers to their list of signees as the school continues to build for a repeat trip to the national Junior College World Series. This past season the Raiders placed fifth in the nation under the direction of coach Jerry Blemker and seem destined for a repeat trip with their all- star roster.

Indiana All- State Finalist Pitcher, Steve Lentz has signed a baseball letter of intent to attend Three Rivers Community College. Steve earned this honor as he pitched his team to the finals of the Indiana State Baseball Tournament. He and his Jeffersonville teammates were beaten 1- 0 by the eventual state champions.

During his junior and senior years at Jeffersonville High School, Steve compiled a 20- 10 record with an earned run average of 1.86 while striking out an average of approximately two batters per inning. He received the earned run average trophy his junior year. His senior year, in addition to this award, he was named to the all- conference team, all- state finalist team, and was named most valuable player by his teammates.

Steve plays summer ball for the Jeffersonville American Legion Team. He has been one of the pitching mainstays on this team the past two seasons. The 1972 team was a state finalist team. Two other Raiders, Mike Weber and Pat Pangburn, were also members of this team.

Southpaw pitcher, Bob Cook, of North High School in Terre Haute, Indiana, will continue his baseball career at Three Rivers Community College. This 6'1", 180 pound fire- baller carries some impressive prep statistics.

During his two years at North, Bob compiled at 15- 1 record. Included in these victories is a no hitter and several one hitters. He averaged approximately 11 strike- outs per game and had an earned run average of 0.76 as a prep hurler. In 1972 he pitched his team to the Semi- State of the Indiana State Baseball Tournament. He was named as the pitcher on the All Semi- State Team. Bob received the Most Outstanding Pitcher trophy for his efforts during the 1973 season.

Bob played summer baseball with the Terre Haute Legion team. His three year record was 22- 7. One of these victories was a no hitter and four were one hitters. During the 1973 season he averaged approximately 13 strike- outs per game and had an earned run average of less than one.

Big Red host Jets Saturday

ST. LOUIS, Mo.--- After dividing a pair of pre- season road games, the St. Louis Football Cardinals open their 1973 home campaign against the New York Jets Saturday night in the 19th annual Cardinal Glennon Hospital benefit game. Kickoff in Busch Memorial Stadium will be at 7:05 p.m. (CDT).

The Cardinals saw their pre- season record drop to 1- 1 last Saturday when the Denver Broncos registered a 38- 17 victory in Denver. Jim Hart, who completed 17 of 22 passes, guided the Big Red to a 10- 7 halftime lead, but the Broncos scored four touchdowns and a field goal in the second half. The Cardinals' lone second half points came on a three- yard touchdown pass from rookie quarterback Gary Keithley to tight end Jim McFarland.

"After looking at the films, we saw some encouraging things from the Broncos game," Cardinal coach Don Coryell said. "We felt the first half went very well. The pass blocking was excellent and Jim Hart's passing was superb."

Coryell is hoping further improvement will be coming against the Jets, particularly since several Big Red players who missed last week's game are expected to be in action. Tight end Jackie Smith is a possibility to see his first action of the season, and wide receivers Bobby Moore and Mel Gray and linebackers Jamie Rivers and Jeff Staggs also could be ready.

Hart has completed 24 of 35 passes in the first two games for a dazzling 68 per cent completion mark. In his scoring drive last week against the Broncos, he completed six straight passes, including two to running back Donny Anderson, who finished the game with six receptions.

The Jets will take a 2- 1 pre- season ledger into the game. They opened the season with victories over the Houston Oilers, 16- 13, and the San Francisco 49ers, 34- 14, but were knocked from the unbeaten ranks on Sunday by the New York Giants at New Haven, Conn., 45- 30.

The game will be the third meeting between the Cardinals and Jets, and the New York team's second charity game appearance. In 1969, the Big Red stopped the Jets, 13- 6, before 50, 372 fans-- a record Glennon game crowd. The only Cardinal- Jets regular season game resulted in a 17- 10 Big Red win in 1971, also in St. Louis.

In Glennon game competition, the Cardinals currently are riding a 10- game unbeaten string. It began in 1964 with a 30- 21 victory over Baltimore. A year later, the Big Red rallied to tie San Francisco, 17- 17. Since then, St. Louis has scored eight straight wins.

The Cardinals have a 12- 5- 1 record in the previous 18 benefit games, which have helped raise nearly two million dollars for the hospital.

Aaron out-runs Birds

As usual, reporters clustered around Hank Aaron's dressing area in the Atlanta Braves' clubhouse.

But Tuesday night wasn't a night to talk about home runs and Babe Ruth's record.

Aaron was loose, smiling, laughing—a side not often shown by the slugger who day after day chases the Babe's alltime record—after Atlanta's 11-7 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

He chuckled over all the running he had done, churning his 39-year-old legs around the bases to score from first on both of teammate Dusty Baker's doubles and legging out a double of his own in the third inning.

He mocked indignation at having to work so hard, but couldn't conceal the fact that he was having a good time.

"Dusty's got no consideration at all, making me run like that," the affable Aaron said. "I told him if he's going to run me from first base, he might as well hit a triple."

There would be other times to talk about home runs and Babe Ruth and pressure. Tuesday night, Henry Aaron just had a good time.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Chicago Cubs defeated the Cincinnati Reds 6-4; the Pittsburgh Pirates trimmed the Houston Astros 5-3; the New York Mets edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1; the Philadelphia Phillies outscored the San Diego Padres 9-8, and the San Francisco Giants dropped the Montreal Expos 3-1.

Cubs 6, Reds 4

Veteran Rico Carty, acquired recently from the Texas Rangers, contributed three singles and twice drove in the goahead run in the Cubs' triumph.

His hits backed Ferguson Jenkins' first complete game since July 6.

Pirates 5, Astros 3

Rookie pitcher John Morlan, 2-1, scored the winning run on Richie Hebner's sacrifice fly in the sixth and defeated Houston's Don Wilson, 9-14.

Mets 2, Dodgers 1

John Milner scored one run and drove in the winner as the Mets topped Don Sutton and the Dodgers. Sutton, 15-8, had carried a three-hitter into the ninth, when Milner's single scored Wayne Garrett from third with the tie-breaker.

Giants 3, Expos 1

A seventh-inning error by Montreal shortstop Tim Foli let San Francisco's Tito Fuentes score from third and helped the Giants top the Expos.

The victory upped Ron Bryant's record to 19-8—tops in the NL in victories.

Phils 9, Padres 8

A bases-loaded double by Del Unser capped a four-run ninth inning and lifted the Phillies to their decision over the Padres. San Diego had held a 5-0 lead in third inning.

The Padres' Dave Roberts drove in three runs with two doubles and a single, but the Phils came back with the help of Greg Luzinski's 22nd home run of the season and Unser's hit.

$764,000 bond election

CARUTHERSVILLE—After a meeting of the Caruthersville School Board with Haywood Snipes, an architect hired by the board, it was decided to call a special election on a $764,000 bond issue.

Supt. Carl Hutchison said if voters in the Caruthersville School District approve the bond issue, it would mean construction of an addition to Westside School and renovation of the high school.

The election will be held Sept. 25. The only polling place will be at the Lee Rood Annex. A two- thirds majority is required for passage of the bond issue.

"Other information on the bond issue will be coming out at a later time," Hutchison remarked. The architect hired earlier this year is still doing preliminary drawing work on plans for construction, he said.

It was announced in late June that a bond issue was being considered. The figure at that time was mentioned to be $650,000 but the superintendent said then "the amount of the bond issue is subject to change."

At the time of that preliminary announcement, the school board was deciding which bonding company they would hire to provide legal services for the bond issue. G. H. Walker and Company, Kansas City, was later hired by the board to provide these services.

The architect, Shipes, was doing cost estimates on the proposed construction and renovation in June. If the bond issue is passed, the work done will replace the Lee Rood facility.

"Once the construction and renovation are done and the children who went to Lee Rood are housed elsewhere, the Lee Rood buildings will be abandoned," Hutchison commented. "That site will then be put up for sale."

In other school board news Wednesday night, the board accepted bids on bread from Wonder Bread Co., tires from Goodyear Tier Service, and pest control from Bruce Terminix.

Chances good for economy progress

Around some of the Kansas City brokerage houses, there is an adage: "get your money down while prices are down."

And certainly prices for stocks (though not hamburger) are down, they remind.

In St. Louis and Memphis, SEC- registered representatives see considerable hope in this summation of Standard & Poor's Outlook: "Interest rate developments can be expected to keep the market off balance in the period immediately ahead. But stocks probably will respond vigorously to any sign --- possibly fairly soon --- that rates are about to peak."

The much read United Business & Investment Report, while recognizing the significance of equity price depressants, currently ends up on an optimistic note:

"You don't need to be told that prices are rising rapidly; each trip to the supermarket grimly confirms that fact. Even with Phase 4 now in effect, you can expect more of the same over the next few months, at least. How long can the presently torrid rate of inflation -- unusually high for peacetime -- go on? This is the gut question, and a firm answer is impossible to give at this point. But it is still too early to yield to the darkest predictions of the gloom surveyors that it can be cooled only at the expense of economic disaster. There is a good chance that by year's end the economy will be making progress toward righting current imbalances -- including inflation."

Kidder Peabody & Co. observes that "for the price-earnings ratios accorded the major indices to reach or violate their 10 - year lows in the face of the strongest peacetime economic expansion in recent history required an extraordinary confluence of adverse developments."

Continuing, the big New York — based brokerage house noted that these included "a steep upswing in the inflation rate: a second devaluation followed by continued weakness of the dollar; sharply higher short- term interest rates, which prompted fear of a credit crunch; concern over a possible recession in 1974; Watergate; and a variety of other influences, some of which are difficult to identify."

Kidder Peabody further asks: "Where might the averages be in 12 months?

"Given our economic outlook for 1974, which calls for a slower but still positive rate of real growth, a modest rise in corporate profits, sufficient availability of credit (albeit at high cost), and improvement in the U. S. balance of payments accompanied by a strengthening of the dollar, share prices in general should trend higher over the next year of 18 months.

"A 20 per cent rise in the major averages, which would put the Dow Jones industrials close to 1100 and the Standard & Poor's 500 at about the 130 level, would not appear to be an unreasonable expectation."

Kidder Peabody asks, "What kinds of stocks should be bought here?" Then it answers its question in these words: "The Portfolio Strategy group believes that emphasis currently should be placed on companies characterized by relatively low cyclical sensitivity and which, at the same time, carry price- earnings ratios that are reasonable relative to growth expectations.

"In other words, we are willing to pay a premium for earnings visibility but are not inclined to pay 30 times projected per- share net for a 10 per cent grower, or 40-50 times earnings for 15 per cent growth. The quality of reported earnings is, of course, an important consideration, but this factor alone does not appear to justify the wide disparity in P/E multiples that exists between the recognized growth stocks and many other companies, the profit outlook for which is similarly bright."

Spray adhesives termed hazard

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission Tuesday declared three aerosol spray adhesives an "imminent hazard" to public health because of their possible link to genetic damage and banned retails sales of the product.

"We have sufficient evidence to officially declare Foil Art Spray Adhesive, Scotch Brand Spra-Ment and Krylon Spray adhesive banned hazardous products," said Commission Chairman Richard O. Simpson.

He praised the 3-M and Bordon Co., manufacturers of the three sprays for halting production and distribution but said the further action under the Hazardous Substances Act was considered necessary to stop sales.

"We have instructed CPSC field investigators to begin an immediate spot check of retail establishments to assure that those spray adhesives are off the shelves," Simpson said.

Retailers who continue selling the products can be punished by up to one year inprisonment and a $3,000 fine, he said.

The commission said at least four other manufacturers of aerosol spray adhesives have agreed voluntarily to halt production and distribution. They were not immediately identified.

The commission has urged consumers not to use spray adhesives and retailers not to sell any spray adhesives, used primarily by art and photo lobbyists.

The commission issued its first public warning last Friday, based on research by a university of Oklahoma scientist, Dr. Rodman Seely, "Strongly suggesting a causual relationship" between exposure to spray adhesives and chromosome damage leading to random, multiple birth defects.

There is no known danger to adults or children, but possibly to the unborn of future generations whose parents were exposed to the sprays, the commission said.

Simpson said the commission is planning a comprehensive effort to determine full extent and implications of the problem, but added that answers are far away.

Millions of cans of spray adhesives have been sold nationwide during the last 10 years, said commission spokesman Ron Eisenberg.

While all brands of spray adhesives are suspected of being a hazard, he said, the commission can act now only against the three brands involved in Seely's research.

Seely's investigation linked spray adhesives to chromosomal breaks in two severely deformed Oklahoma City infants, their parents, and four other persons in the Oklahoma City area, the commission said.

Big K to open here Thursday

Kuhn's - Big K Stores Corp., will formally open its 52nd Big K promotional type department store at South Main and South Kingshighway at 10 a.m., Thursday.

A ribbon - cutting ceremony at 9:50 a.m. will precede the opening, with O. D. Clayton, Chamber of Commerce, executive vice president, in charge of the program which will feature the ribbon cutting by Mayor Frank Ferrell.

Jack W. Kuhn, president of Huhn's - Big K stores Corp., Nashville, and Carl Goldstein, vice president and treasurer, will represent the firm's home office in the brief ceremony in front of the store.

The new Big K will be opened to the public immediately after the opening ceremony and a grand opening sale will be launched.

Norman S. Cockerham, manager, invites everyone to attend the brief program and to visit the store.

"We look forward to serving the Sikeston area with our new Big K," Kuhn said. "We are proud to be a part of the growing area and our Big K will help boost Sikeston as a regional shopping center.

The president says, "Our Big K stores are complete family department stores selling only quality merchandise at discount prices."

The store will stock complete selections of clothing, accessories and shoes for the entire family, along with toys, sporting goods, auto accessories, hardware, complete home furnishings, health and beauty aids, notions and stationery.

"Big K stocks many thousands of nationally advertised brands of the most popular, desirable lines of merchandise," Kuhn said.

Cockerham heads a staff of approximately 75 people which has been assembled to operate the store.

"We want everyone in all the Sikeston area to visit our new Big K during grand opening and see our store," the manager said.

A paved parking area for several hundred cars has been provided.

Many special values, plus free gifts and prizes, are being offered during grand opening, the manager said.

The new Big K store will be under management of the same family which has operated stores in a five- state area since 1913.

Kuhn's - Big K Stores Corp., currently operates 27 Kuhn's Variety Stores and the Sikeston Big K will be the 52nd discount store in the chain.

Lee Kuhn started a business in Columbia, Tenn., in 1913. About the same time his brother, Gus D. Kuhn Sr., opened a store in Harriman, Tenn., and a third brother, Ike Kuhn, started operations in what is now Decatur, Ala.

The three combined their businesses in 1917 and moved company headquarters to Nashville and opened additional stores in Kentucky, Alabama, Tenneseee, Georgia and Mississippi.

Jack W. Kuhn, president, and Gus D. Kuhn Jr., vice president, are sons of the Harriman store founder. Gilbert Fox, secretary, and Carl Goldstein, treasurer, married daughters of Lee Kuhn.

The firm operated only variety stores from its founding until 1962 when the first Big K was opened in Hopkinsville, Ky. A second Big K was opened in Kingsport, Tenn., in 1963, and the following year a third was opened in Madisonville, Ky. Now Big Ks are being opened at the rate of 10 or more each year.

The Sikeston store will be the first Big K in Missouri. A second is planned for Poplar Bluff next year and later this year a Big K will open at Blytheville, Ark. Big Ks are now open in nearby towns of Paducah and Murray,Ky., and Dyersburg and Union City, Tenn.

Kuhn's - Big K is a public held corporation. Its stock is listed on the American Stock Exchange.

New bank in Essex

The Essex facility of Bank of Bloomfield, located in the old Farmers Bank building which has been renovated opened for business Aug. 13.

Bank facility opens

ESSEX — The Essex facility of Bank of Bloomfield opened for business Aug. 13 and followed with a grand opening ceremony Aug. 15.

The new banking facility, the first for Essex in 42 years, is located in the old Farmers Bank building.

In discussing the opening of the facility, bank officials said an attempt has been made to retain much of the interior of the old bank to give an antique decor.

Banking hours will be from 9 a.m. until noon and from 1 to 3 p.m. weekdays and from 9 a.m. until noon on Saturday.

Overseeing the Essex facility, as well as the main bank in Bloomfield, is Gilbert Logel, a new executive vice president, who has just joined Bank of Bloomfield. Logel and his family will be moving to Bloomfield in the near future from Cape Girardeau, where he was associated with First National Bank.

Bank of Bloomfield directors include Leo A. Fisher, chairman; Yewell G. Lawrence, president; Bloyce Unger, vice president; Mrs. E. E. Good, treasurer; and Joe Welborn, attorney and secretary.

Roger Jordon is manager of the Essex facility and Mrs. Bell Gaines of Dexter is the teller.

Cape businessman now heads VIP industries

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A Cape Girardeau businessman, Hilary F. Schmittzehe, this week assumed the position of executive director for VIP industries in an area including counties of Ste. Genevieve, Perry, Wayne, Cape, Bollinger and parts of Scott, Stoddard and Jefferson.

Schmittzehe will be chief administrative officer of the corporation and be over the workshops at Lutesville and Cape Girardeau.

A jeweler for nearly 25 years, Schmittzehe is now closing out his business in the Unnerstall Drug Store, 630 Good Hope.

He has worked with handicapped persons for many years and is now a member of the Governor's Advisory Council on Mental Retardation and Other Developmental Disabilities and chairman of its legislative and sheltered employment committees.

Schmittzehe, who lives at 236 S. Boulevard, was one of the organizers of the Cape County Association for Retarded Children and has served in many capacities, including president. He served on the board of directors and helped to start the Sheltered Workshop here, now VIP Industries. He also has held the presidency of the Missouri Association for Retarded Children.

He is a state director of the Missouri Council Knights of Columbus and is secretary of its Mental Health Foundation, which awards grants to local organizations across the state.

Making plans

Big Star to open soon

NEW MADRID— A mid-September opening is planned for Sam's Big Star Supermarket in Villa Shopping Center on Dawson Road, according to Sam Purser, co- owner and manager.

Construction is in the final stages, Purser said, and equipment and fixtures are being installed. A complete line of merchandise is on order for one- stop shopping, and stocking of shelves will begin soon.

Malone and Hyde of Sikeston is the prime supplier for the new business.

Purser said a grand opening will be scheduled following the initial opening.

Mrs. Martha Ransburgh is co- owner with Purser and Gene Clayton is assistant manager.

New facilities added

Rainbow Lake, located one- and one- half miles east of Sikeston on the first blacktop road east of Interstate 55, is expanding operations. The camping area, owned by Ozby and John Brewer, will include three lakes, a camping area and hookups. The lakes will be used to raise catfish. One will also be open for fishing. Rainbow Lake has been in operation a year. Two lakes are shown in background. The area in foreground will be used for the third lake.

M and H sales reach record high

J. R. Hyde, III, president of Malone & Hyde, Inc., announced today that Malone & Hyde, Inc. achieved record sales, earnings and earnings per share for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1973.

Net Sales and Other Income for the 53 weeks totaled $606,216,541. This is an increase of $85,074,094 or 16.32 per cent over Net Sales and Other Income of $521,142,447 for the 52 weeks of fiscal 1972.

Earnings after taxes for the year were $7,856,384 up $804,635 or 11.41 per cent over fiscal 1972 earnings after taxes of $7,051,749.

Earnings per share advanced 10.92 per cent to $1.32, compared to $1.19 for fiscal 1972.

Prior year's operations have been restated to reflect acquisitions during 1973 accounted for on a pooling-of-interests basis.

Readers,

This week's recipes are more from Bell City home economics students of Mrs. Helon Myrick.

The girls said these were some of their favorites, so they (and I) hope you enjoy them.

Good eating. Fall's a coming.

CHEESE POTATO PUFFS

¼ cup butter
3/4 cup boiling water
2/3 cup sifted flour
½ tsp. salt
3 eggs
2 cups mashed potatoes
½ cup grated cheese

Melt butter in boiling water in saucepan. Mix flour and salt together and add to water. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly for about two minutes or until mixture leaves sides of pan and is smooth and compact.

Remove from heat and blend in eggs, one at a time, beating vigorously after each. Then blend in potatoes and cheese.

Drop by teaspoons into deep hot fat. Brown, drain on absorbent paper.

TUNA SOUFFLE

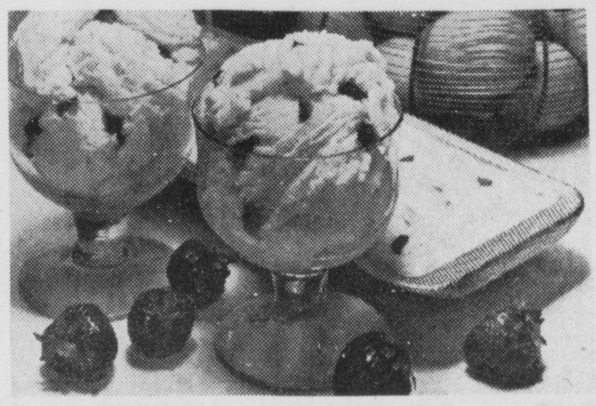
Calorie-Watchers Like This Dessert



STRAWBERRY VANILLA FREEZE — It's low in calories.

STRAWBERRY VANILLA FREEZE

3/4 cup sugar
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1-3rd cups instant nonfat dry milk solids
3 3/4 cups cold water
2 eggs, lightly beaten
1 pint fresh strawberries, finely chopped (about 2 cups)
1 1/2 tablespoons pure vanilla extract
Red food coloring, if desired

In a medium saucepan thoroughly stir together the sugar, gelatin, cornstarch and salt. Blend dry milk with water; blend into sugar mixture. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to the boiling point and thickens slightly; cool for 1 minute. Blend a little of this hot mixture into beaten eggs; stir the egg mixture back into the hot mixture remaining in the saucepan. Cook and stir over very low heat for about 5 minutes or until mixture coats the back of a silver spoon — do not overcook. Let mixture cool for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in strawberries and vanilla. Pour into 2 freezer trays without ice-cube dividers; freeze until mixture is frozen 1-inch from edge. Turn into the large bowl of an electric mixer and beat until smooth — about 2 minutes. If food coloring is used, blend it in. Return to freezer trays. Freeze until firm. Allow to soften slightly at room temperature before serving. Makes 1 1/2 quarts — 106 calories per 1/2 cup portion.

Three-time Presidential nominee Henry Clay was called the "Great Pacificator" because of his efforts to prevent the dissolution of the Union over slavery. He criticized northern abolitionism as divisive, and when a Senator advised that this position would ruin his chances for president, Clay retorted: "I had rather be right than be president," The World Almanac recalls.

Coffee Corner by Cherie

Why is it I start out each Spring with a definite plan in mind as to how I want my house landscaped, and just where and when I want each flower to rear its lovely head and then, kapoot! How can one possibly be so very enthused in April, and so very unenthused by June and August is something I'll never know, but try as I may, the same thing happens to me each and every year. I can hardly wait to get the first seeds and plants in the garden, the result being I always get in a rush and always, lose at least one crop to a frost that's just waiting for me to get them in the ground, and then as always, I have to replant once and on occasion two and sometimes even (if you want me to be absolutely honest) three times. I mean it can be 70 degrees for a solid week in May, everyone is prespiring and the little plants are saying, "Put me in the ground please," and then that night, after I've spent the entire day grubbing in the dirt, that night the thermometer drops to zero and the next morning all my little babies are ready for the undertaker. However, this never daunts me, I plant again, I feed and water andprune and weed, and then, long about the first of June when everything has gotten big enough to bloom and spread out, then I have this horrible sinking spell and I can hardly bear to get out in the yard and water, weed, or even at that stage pick myself a bouquet. So, after all that frantic work in the Spring, I poop out in mid summer and allow the fruits of my labor to shrivel up and droop till death do us part! What on earth can be the matter with me? Here I've raised all these babies from seed, nurtured them through adolescent, and then, just as they're about to reach manhood I fold up and depart. What a scary thought, gosh, I sure hope I do better with my kids!!?!

1.4 million American children are emotionally disturbed

By HELEN B. SHAFFER
Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON — Nothing touches the heartstrings like the plight of the handicapped child. Fund- raisers for numerous child- aid programs can always count on the instant sympathy aroused by the image this term evokes. But there is one class of handicapped children that until recently has benefitted little from this humane sensibility. These are the emotionally disturbed children whose handicap is manifested chiefly by erratic behavior. Such children are difficult to deal with at home, in school, and in the community generally.

Long neglected by child-serving agencies, including the schools, the emotionally disturbed child is beginning at last to receive the attention he needs-- often through litigation and lobbying by the parents. No longer hiding their problem behind closed doors, these parents are out fighting for extension of public services for their children. They also want public appreciation of children who, they point out, are no less deserving -- and no less lovable -- than other handicapped children.

Many emotionally disturbed children look no different from normal, healthy children. Hence they are not always recognized as helpless victims of a crippling condition. Some are given to peculiar quirks of behavior that repel strangers, exasperate teachers, and can even drive members of their own families to distraction. It is easy to mistake their outbursts of temper or sudden destructive rampages as ordinary misbehavior of an undisciplined child.

Not all emotionally disturbed children are noisy and destructive. Some are frightened and withdrawn. The obstreperous ones cause trouble in school and often get sent packing. The quiet ones are little bother and may drift along for years without getting the kind of education they really need.

Although all states have compulsory school- attendance laws and most states require that educational provisions be made for handicapped children, many emotionally disturbed children have in fact been excluded from public-supported education. Loopholes in the law have permitted this. "Typically," write Frederick J. Weintraub and Alan R. Abeson of The Council for Exceptional Children, "these laws provide for the exclusion of 'children with bodily or mental conditions rendering attendance inadvisable' or where 'the child's physical or mental condition or attitude is such as to prevent or render inadvisable his attendance at school or his application to study.' "

Studies conducted for the U.S. Office of Education indicate that 2 per cent of the nation's school age population, or roughly 1.2 million youngsters, have been diagnosed as emotionally disturbed, as have 180,000 younger children. These estimates do not include children with other primary handicaps that may have caused an emotional disturbance. Nor does it include the many milder cases of juvenile maladjustment or budding neurosis.

Of the entire group labeled as emotionally disturbed, the Office of Education found only 156,500 were being served by public education. Among all handicapped children covered by these Office of Education studies, the emotionally disturbed group was the one served least by public education -- far less, for example, than the mentally retarded or those with sensory defects. The education agency estimated ghat for every special teacher now available to the emotionally disturbed, 10 more are needed.

The National Institute of Mental Health presents an even more drastic picture. It has has estimated that more than 10 per cent of the population under the age of 25 -- some 10 million in all -- require mental health services of some kind. Millions of children are without help from any kind of psychiatric or counseling facility.

The most promising development for the emotionally disturbed is that recent court decisions have required attention to their educational needs as a constitutional right under the "due process" clause of the 14th Amendment. A landmark decision was handed down on Aug. 1, 1972, by federal Judge Joseph C. Waddy in the District of Columbia.

Plaintiffs in this case were a group of handicapped children, several of them emotionally disturbed, who were either living in an institution with no educational facilities or were on a waiting list for tuition grants to pay for private education. In its defense, the school system pleaded that it was too short of funds to provide the special education these children needed.

Judge Waddy said this was no excuse. "The inadequacies of the ... public school system ... certainly cannot be permitted to bear more heavily on the ... handicapped ... than on the normal child," he ruled. If there wasn't enough money to finance all the services needed, he said, "then the available funds must be expended equitably ..." Litigation in more than a dozen other jurisdictions has produced similar judgments. And several legislatures have taken their cues from these judicial mandates. As a result, many disturbed children are likely to be getting an educational break for the first time in their young troubled lives.

'Penny Black'

The British "Penny Black," the world's first adhesive postage stamp, issued in 1840, is neither the most expensive nor the rarest stamp sought by collectors today. A number of the 64 million "Penny Blacks" that were printed survive in stamp albums.

Barefoot Jerry aiming for the top

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — There's a saying in Nashville that it takes at least five years for the music industry to discover a real talent.

For Barefoot Jerry, a polished six-man rock group, the five years is almost over, but the horzon remains unclear.

About the only people outside Nashville who are familiar with the Barefoot Jerry sound are connoisseurs of rock music. Poor promotion, Nashville's country setting, and innergroup problems early in its career have seen to that.

"We keep cutting good albums and nobody hears them.," said Wayne Moss, the group's leader. "That's one reason why we've had some turnovers in the group. A guy will get in and say, 'This is incredibly good, it has to happen soon,' When it doesn't, he splits.

"Nobody knows we exist, and it sure is frustrating."

Live or on record, Barefoot Jerry's music boasts far-reaching versatility and tightness. It encompasses hard rock, piano boogie, rock-blues, English rock, and dabbles in country rock. But the group's own creation is one of a toned-down, mellowed-out rock.

The group works with standard electric and accoustical guitars and exploits the steel guitar with a creative countryrock flair.

Added are drums, piano, organ, Moog Synthesizer and mellow vocal tones. Everything Barefoot Jerry does on record it does in person.

Moss has been in Nashville 13 years, 10 of them as a highlytouted studio sideman. His early work includes sessions with Dylan, Baez and Simon and Garfunkel.

Together with several other top studio session men, Moss chucked his career as a sideman and concentrated solely on getting the group's music together.

Barefoot Jerry's next album is due for release in late 1973. Master recordings of that proposed album take in a lot of popular sounds—Moody Blues, Three Dog Night, Seals and Croft and some self-styled electric guitar work by Dave Doran. Many of the styles are blended into each song, creating a vast but tight sound. And to it all is added the group's personal Nashville touch.

"If somebody comes to see us, rather than hearing two or three hours of one kind of music, I'd like to make them feel like they've seen a complete concert," said Moss.

Getting to see Barefoot Jerry is considered a rare treat. In its five years, the group has performed on stage only four times—despite having already made two impressive albums.

The reason for few appearances are twofold: it's taken five years to get group members who wanted to go on tour instead of concentrating on recording; and promotional stemming from financial woes problems with recording labels and bad timing.

"Now that we've gone out and started playing for people, the reaction is very gratifying," said Moss.

Frankly speaking

Cosmetic consumer protection sought

By THOMAS F. EAGLETON
U. S. Senator—Missouri

Cosmetics which are commonly thought to be items used to enhance one's beauty, or for physical hygiene are often proving to be dangerous and injurious products.

Hair sprays with inflammable ingredients have caused women's hair to go up in flames.

Bubble bath made with strong detergents is increasingly giving children urinary infections.

Hair dyes have left women not only with a change of hair color, but a change of hair density, causing them to go blad. After shave lotions and talcom powders have caused painful infections in hair follicles.

Mascaras and eye liners and eye shadows have resulted in eye infections-- not beautiful eyes.

And many types of cosmetics, not listing their ingredients, have caused allergies among their users.

Consumers should not have to suffer needlessly from unsafe and discomforting cosmetics. Safety standards for cosmetics must be established and adhered to by cosmetic manufacturers. Labels listing ingredients on all cosmetics should be mandatory.

I have introduced legislation that seeks to provide this protection for cosmetic consumers, and as a member of the Senate Health Subcommittee, I will be holding hearings on cosmetic safety. The hearings will be held in Washington September 12 and 13.

These hearings will seek to establish the extent of the risk of harm to the consuming public posed by unsafe cosmetic products and to determine what legislative action may be appropriated to reduce or eliminate this risk. It will mark the first time in 35 years that Congress had directed its attention to the cosmetic industry despite the fact that Americans spend $7 billion annually on cosmetic products-- more than they do on prescription drugs.

The term "cosmetics" has a much broader application than many think. It includes not only makeup products, but toothpaste, shaving cream, talcum powder, perfume, and breath fresheners as well. In short, cosmetics are products that most people use every day, many in the false belief that these products are in some way approved by the government and therefore must be safe. This assumption is erroneous for the cosmetic industry is virtually unregulated.

The National Commission on Product Safety found that 60,000 people, mostly women, are injured by cosmetics every year. The Commission reported that such injuries include skin eruptions, loss of hair, severe allergic reactions, burns, itching, and lacerations. In my judgment, there is a clear need for stricter regulation of cosmetic products to assure a greater degree of consumer safety.

Briefly, my bill would:

(1) Require all cosmetics to carry labels listing ingredients along with any additional information or warnings that may be needed in particular cases;

(2) Require that all cosmetic manufacturers test their products for safety and submit the test data to the Food and Drug Administration to show that these products are safe for their intended use before putting them on the market;

(3) Require all manufacturers of cosmetics to register with the FDA, to submit statements of the composition of their products, and to forward consumer complaints to the agency.

The success of this effort depends largely on the active interest of the consuming public. I am hopeful that Congress will move quickly in this area of consumer protection and that we may have your active, vocal support.

NEW HIPS FOR OLD

SURGEONS AGREE that "total hip replacement" is the best thing that has happened to arthritis patients in many a decade. Here two components of a man-made hip are implanted: a metal part to replace the upper bone of the leg, and a polyethylene cup which will function as a socket. Of all the joints that can be destroyed by arthritis, only the hip can be replaced with near perfection. But more progress is in sight. Biomedical engineers working at Arthritis Clinical Research Centers supported by The Arthritis Foundation are busily designing knees, finger joints, elbows and shoulders.

Book Review

DIDMAN
by John Speicher
(Avon 15248/$1.25
286 pp.)

Called by Time magazine "a literary achievement, the transformation of social outrage into art," John Speicher's DIDMAN is the story of liberal, successful, Yale graduate Joe Didman, who moves into a slum in order to meet his alimony payments. Shocked by the concentration-camp surroundings he finds there, Didman joins forces with a Black revolutionary group and toes on a suicide protest mission. "The kind of fiction that should not be overlooked, said Publishers Weekly; "a journey to the end of night . . . sustainedly effective," said the New York Times.
